Visa

- Whether you need a visa for Germany depends on which country you are from and how long you plan to stay here. Most students from non-EU countries need a visa. Find out more about whether you need a visa or not and about the visa process on these websites:
 - study-in-germany.com/visa
 - <https://www.mygermanuniversity.com/articles/Germany-student-visa-requirements>
- Join free webinars such as <https://www.mygermanuniversity.com/webinars>
- Start to gather information about the visa process in your country long before you receive your letter of admission. In some countries, it can take many months until you receive an appointment, so be prepared once you receive yours.
- Check what documents you will need and prepare whatever you can prepare even if have not been admitted yet

Delayed Arrival

- Visas can take a long time - We are here for you!
- Several options depending on your individual case:
 - Late arrival letter for the embassy
 - Holiday semester (you can keep your seat in your program and start one semester late)
 - Other options are up to individual situation
- We are happy to guide you

Visa

- You will need proof of financing either directly when you apply for a visa, or the latest when you apply for a residence permit in Germany
- The most common proof of financing is a blocked account. From 1 January 2025, the presumed annual amount that must be paid into a blocked account when applying for a visa is 11,904 €
- Visit study-in-germany.com/proof-of-financing for more information
- Please be aware that you might have to show this amount twice, once for your student visa application and once again for the application of your student residence permit. So if your student visa is valid for 6 months or 1 year, please be sure that by the time of your appointment to apply for or to extend your residence permit, your blocked account again shows 11,904 €.
