Welcome to htw saar!

Dear exchange student

Welcome to htw saar, University of Applied Sciences, Saarbrücken!

htw saar is the largest University of Applied Sciences in the federal state of Saarland with some 6000 students and a staff of over 400. htw saar is a multi-campus university with a very diverse student community. The percentage of international students is significantly higher than the national average. Currently, there are over 700 international students from over 70 countries learning together.

htw saar is offering more than 40 Bachelor and Master programmes, either taught in German, or some in English or French in the four schools: Business, Architecture & Civil Engineering, Engineering and Social Sciences. htw saar also can take credit for being a pioneer in shaping fully integrated German-French degree programmes in conjunction with the partner university in Metz, France. In 1978, long before ERASMUS and Bologna, the two universities founded the unique Franco-German Institute for Technology and Business, called ISFATES in French and DFHI in German, which today offers twelve German-French double-degree-programmes.

Studies at htw saar are practical-oriented with an excellent combination of hands-on skills along with a strong theoretical knowledge base. Research is fundamental and we attach great importance to applied research and development. We conduct research with industry partners in Germany and abroad and we belong to the top ranked Universities of Applied Sciences in Germany for R&D. International students are welcome to participate in the various R&D projects and get a better understanding of German cutting-edge technology and innovation.

I hope you will learn and discover a lot of new things during your studies and life in Saarbrücken. You will find new friends in our local student community and of course amongst the very diverse international student community. I’m wishing you the most enjoyable and stimulating experience - something to look back at home.

We look forward to having you as a student and to meeting you!

Prof. Dr. Andy Junker, Vice President for Academic and International Affairs

Introduction

htw saar
Hochschule für Technik und Wirtschaft
des Saarlandes
University of Applied Sciences
www.htw.saar.de

General description
The "Hochschule für Technik und Wirtschaft des Saarlandes", commonly referred to as htw saar, is a multi-campus university in Saarbrücken. There are four main sites: Campus Alt-Saarbrücken, Campus Rotenbühl, Campus Göttelborn and Campus IT-Park.

Campus Alt-Saarbrücken houses the School of Engineering, the School of Social Sciences, the Department of Civil Engineering as well as the Franco-German Institute for Technology and Business (ISFATES-DFHI).

Campus Rotenbühl is home to the Business School.

The School of Architecture is located on Campus Göttelborn.

The International Office and student services, as well as the university administration are located on Campus Alt-Saarbrücken. An additional site, the Campus IT Park, houses several research units and institutes.
htw saar currently offers more than 40 fulltime degree programmes all accredited by national or international accreditation agencies, as well as a growing number of part-time postgraduate professional education programmes. Study programmes are highly structured with students often learning in small groups. Excellent supervision and close contact to academic staff are distinctive features of academic life at the university. Students have access to modern, well-equipped laboratories, lecture halls and seminar rooms.

The university places considerable emphasis on high-quality, practically-focused teaching that is closely meshed with real social, business and industrial applications. This enables the university to identify at an early stage the changing needs of today’s working environment and to adapt the curricula accordingly.

The majority of the degree programmes include an integrated internship in industry as well as foreign language training. For international exchange students htw saar offers German courses (see p.51) to facilitate immersion into German study and community life.

A Bachelor degree programme generally lasts six to seven semesters (1 semester=6 months), while a Master's programme normally takes three to four semesters. For detailed information about the individual degree programmes available, please refer to the internet presentations provided by the various departments at www.htwsaar.de/studium/studienangebot.

In the academic year 2018/19 some 6000 students are enrolled at htw saar. Over 700 students are international students from over 70 different countries.

Semester dates and timetable

At htw saar the academic year is divided into a summer and a winter semester. International exchange students may begin their course of study in the winter or summer semester. You can find the semester dates for the academic year 2019/20 on the inside of the cover to this guide.

Classes are scheduled from Monday to Friday. Some courses require students to attend class on Saturdays or in the evening. The detailed timetables are displayed on notice boards approximately two weeks before lectures start and can also be viewed on the departmental web pages.
Franco-German study programmes (DFHI)

The university’s proximity to France and Luxembourg is not only a geographical fact; it is embodied in the Franco-German Institute for Technology and Business (in French ISFATES, in German DFHI, Deutsch-Französisches Hochschulinstitut), with its unique headquarters at Université de Lorraine in Metz/Nancy (France) and at htw saar in Saarbrücken (Germany). The integrated DFHI programme ‘Building and Construction Management’ at the Department of Civil and Structural Engineering is taught cooperatively by htw saar in Saarbrücken, the Université de Lorraine in Metz, France and the Université du Luxembourg, Luxemburg.

The Franco-German Institute for Technology and Business (DFHI) provides a varied offer of Bachelor’s and Master’s degree programmes in the study areas of civil and structural engineering; business administration; logistics, tourism management, electrical and electronic engineering, computer sciences and mechanical engineering (www.dfhi-isfates.eu).

Summer intensive programmes

The Business School offers a 3 week summer immersion session focusing on business studies topics for students of partner universities. The next summer immersion will take place from 24 June to 12 July 2019. The programme comprises selected business studies courses, German language learning, intercultural awareness, factory and company visits and excursions into the greater region as well as social and cultural activities. More detailed information and the application form can be found at: https://www.htwsaar.de/int/io/summer-schools
Located in the heart of the so-called Saar-Lor-Lux triangle, Saarland is strongly influenced by its neighbours France and Luxembourg. The Lorraine region of France is only a stone’s throw away and Luxembourg a mere 90 km from Saarbrücken.

With a population of over 990 000 and an area of 2570km², Saarland is the smallest of the German federal states after the city-states of Berlin, Bremen and Hamburg.

Around one third of Saarland is covered by forest. With its rolling hills and river landscape it is very popular for hiking and other outdoor activities.

The southwest of Germany, which includes Saarland and its neighboring state Rhineland-Palatinate as well as Baden-Württemberg, is known to be the sunniest region in Germany. The climate is temperate meaning relatively mild winters with only occasional periods of below freezing point temperatures and pleasant summers with typical daytime temperatures between 20 and 28 degree celsius.

Mining and the steel industry were for many years the most important elements in the economy of the Saarland. Today, the focus is on new industries, technologies and services, for example automotive and suppliers, software and health technology.

Saarbrücken

Saarbrücken, with a population of over 180 000, is the capital city of the German federal state of Saarland, its name meaning literally “Saar river bridge”. It is a modern, forward-looking and forward-thinking city, boasting an attractive historic city center and varied cultural and recreational amenities.

Saarbruecken inhabitants or “Saarländer” in general are lively, outgoing and enjoy the good things in life (“Savoir Vivre” - Paris is not far away), but at the same time are very grounded and have a strong sense of their local identity.

Compared to other university cities in the western part of Germany living expenses in Saarbruecken are relatively affordable and the housing situation for students is not as difficult as it is in the large metropoles, though it can be a bit challenging at the beginning of the academic year.

Being home to people from about 150 different nationalities, as well as over 23 000 students from four academic institutions of higher education, makes Saarbrücken a unique, multicultural, open-minded and lively student oriented city located in the heart of Europe.

Obligatory internships for degree seeking students

Studying at htw saar is practically oriented and the ultimate goal is to get you the best starting position for your career.

Degree seeking exchange students from partner universities who have to do an obligatory industrial internship as part of their studies at htw saar are required to find and organize the internships/placements themselves. However, the htw saar placement coordinators (http://www.htwsaar.de/service/praxisreferat) can advise and help these students to identify suitable companies/organizations in Germany to apply to.

Important notes:

- German language knowledge must be minimum B2 level. The work environment for industrial internships/placements is mostly German speaking only. To reach B2 students typically need at least 800 contact hours of language classes.

- Minimum placement period usually required by companies is 12 weeks (longer preferred), in some cases 4 to 6 months. For obligatory internship exam regulations usually specify the duration.

Types of exchange students

There are various types of student status at htw saar pending on the programme. Some students are in the exchange only to transfer credits, others study (at the same time) towards a degree at htw saar. Degree-seeking and non-degree seeking students have to fulfill different criteria for admission (see p.27-31).

Non-degree exchange student
A student sent from a partner university (see p.23-24) who studies one or two semesters at htw saar. The course credits are to be transferred back toward the degree studied in the home country.

Degree-seeking exchange student
A student sent from a partner university (see p.23-24) who studies towards a degree at htw saar. Admission as degree seeking exchange student is subject to specific requirements with regard to study progress and proof of language proficiency (see p.30-31). In cases where there is a dual-degree agreement with the partner institution additional requirements may apply.
Application deadlines and forms

Application deadlines
30 November for an exchange during the summer semester (dates see p. 2)

Application forms
Forms and the list of required documents for non-degree and degree-seeking exchange students can be downloaded from: www.htwsaar.de/exchange

Application process

The application process differs slightly between students coming from a partner-university within the EHEA (European Higher Education Area, usually ERASMUS+-students) and from partner universities outside of the EHEA.

Learning agreement / list of modules

We require a learning agreement / list of modules (see: www.htwsaar.de/exchange) together with the application documents. Students should discuss their choice of htw saar modules with their academic advisor of their home university in order to prepare their learning agreement / list of modules, in which the intended study programme at htw saar is formalized. The module catalogue is available at: www.htwsaar.de/exchange

The original learning agreement / list of modules will be evaluated by the htw saar international exchange coordinator of the respective department a short time after the application deadline. However, thereafter modifications may occur and htw saar, as well as the student, have the possibility to change the original version. All exchange students will meet their academic htw saar exchange coordinator before the start of courses to finalize the learning agreement / list of modules. Once the courses have started, we only allow changes within the first four weeks of lectures. Students from OUTSIDE-EHEA partner universities need to fill in the form ‘Changes to the original proposed learning agreement’ (see: www.htwsaar.de/exchange). ERASMUS+ students fill in the part ‘Exceptional changes during the mobility’ of their learning agreement. Students are required to forward the modified learning agreement / list of modules to their home university (departmental coordinator or International Office) as well as submitting a copy to the International Office at htw saar.

ECTS

The European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System (ECTS) is the credit system for higher education used in the European Higher Education Area (EHEA). ECTS is a central tool in the Bologna Process and has been adopted by most of the EHEA countries. It aims to make national systems more compatible and helps with the planning, delivery and evaluation of study programmes.

ECTS credits

ECTS credits are based on the workload students need in order to achieve expected learning outcomes. Learning outcomes describe what a learner is expected to know, understand and be able to do after successful completion of a process of learning. They relate to level descriptors in national and European qualifications frameworks. Workload indicates the time students typically need to complete all learning activities (such as lectures, seminars, projects, practical work, self-study and examinations) required to achieve the expected learning outcomes. 60 ECTS credits are attached to the workload of a full-time academic year (30 ECTS per semester) of formal learning and the associated learning outcomes. In most cases, student workload ranges from 1,500 to 1,800 hours for an academic year, whereby one credit corresponds to 25 to 30 hours of work.

Use of ECTS credits

Credits are allocated to entire qualifications or study programmes as well as to their educational components (such as modules, course units, dissertation work, work placements and laboratory work). The number of credits ascribed to each component is based on its weight in terms of the workload students need in order to achieve the learning outcomes in a formal context. Credits are awarded to individual students (full-time or part-time) after completion of the learning activities required by a formal programme of study or by a single educational component and the successful assessment of the achieved learning outcomes. ECTS is also used in documents that help to organise students' learning mobility, including Course Catalogue, Learning Agreement and Transcript of Records.

For more detailed information about the ECTS credit system and the ECTS Users’ Guide, see:

Diploma Supplement

The Diploma Supplement is a document attached to a higher education diploma providing a standardised description of the nature, level, context, content and status of the studies that were pursued and successfully completed by the graduate. The Diploma Supplement provides transparency and facilitates academic and professional recognition of qualifications (diplomas, degrees, certificates etc.). Exchange students successfully completing a double degree programme will receive a htw saar diploma as well as a htw saar diploma supplement.

Student living

Cost of living and financing your studies

Cost of living and studying

At present there are no tuition fees at htw saar. However, all students have to pay the semester fee (see p.61).

According to the DAAD, a student's average monthly budget in Germany ranges from 725€ to 865€. This includes accommodation, travel expenses, costs for food, clothing, learning material, health insurance, phone, internet, radio and television fees and expenses for leisure activities.

Sample Monthly Budget:
300€ Accommodation (incl. utilities)
165€ Food
93€ Statutory student health insurance
82€ Travel
68€ Leisure activities/culture/sport
60€ Clothes
30€ Books/study materials
18€ License fee for public broadcasting
17€ Internet/telephone

--------------
833€ Sum
This amount does not include the semester fee (see p.61), which needs to be paid prior to every semester (as part of enrolment). It also does not include, for non-EU nationals, fees to be paid for the visa application at the embassy and/or the temporary residence permit at immigration authority. Additionally, accommodation providers usually require a refundable security deposit at the start of your rental agreement and sometimes a cleaning service fee upon termination of the rental contract. This means that higher costs arise at the start (and end) of the semester.

More information and detailed average living expenses can be found on: www.daad.de/deutschland/nach-deutschland/en/ → “Financing”.

Please note that non-EU nationals, who need to apply for either a visa at the German embassy and/or a temporary residence permit at the immigration authority in Saarbrücken, usually need to submit proof of sufficient financial resources. Information about exact amounts and documentation required can be obtained from these institutions (see page 53 & 54).

General information, also see:

Scholarships

Scholarships and grants offer a means of financing or partially financing a course of study in Germany. International exchange students from EU member states and other eligible countries usually receive a European mobility grant from the European Union’s Erasmus+ programme. As the country-of-origin principle applies within the Erasmus+ programme, you should contact your home institution for details.

Additional scholarship and grant programmes for studying in Germany are administered by the DAAD (German Academic Exchange Service). The award of a scholarship or grant is typically dependent on the candidate’s academic progress and achievements. Comprehensive information as well as a scholarship database is available at the DAAD website www.daad.de.

Financial support for work experience, vocational training and internships

Students from EHEA member states and other eligible countries who would like to gain work experience as part of their course of study in Germany may apply for a European mobility grant from the Erasmus+ programme. Some EHEA member states also offer national grant programmes to support students seeking work placement in another EHEA country. For further information please contact the International Office at your home institution.
Student employment / student jobs

Students may also be able to undertake paid employment as a means of financing their stay in Germany. Typical unqualified student jobs include working in restaurants as service staff or in the kitchen, temporary sales staff in shops, etc. Employers usually expect advanced German language proficiency. For non-EU nationals, depending on their visa/residence permit status restrictions may apply.

The local student service team of the Federal Employment Agency (Agentur für Arbeit), located at the other university in Saarbrücken offers a student job service and database for all students in Saarbrücken, as well as information and advice on income tax, work permits and restrictions for non-EU nationals:

Accommodation

htw saar does not operate student residence halls itself and is unfortunately not a member of the "Studentenwerk im Saarland e.V." (an association which runs the majority of the student residence halls in the city of Saarbruecken). However, there are some other external institutions which operate student residences with furnished units.

The International Office at htw saar offers a pre-reservation service for international exchange students for these types of accommodation. The available options with our external accommodation partners are described below. After admission all exchange students will receive a pre-reservation form from the International Office in the 2nd half of July (for students studying at htw saar in the winter semester) and in the 2nd half of January (for students studying at htw saar in the summer semester). The actual rental paperwork with the external accommodation providers will be sent to the student either via e-mail or postal mail by the management of these partners.

Private lodgings / Flat or house shares

A room in a private house will generally be furnished, whereas single apartments or rooms in a shared student flat or house (known in German as a “WG”, meaning “Wohngemeinschaft”) will generally be unfurnished. Private apartments, a room in private lodgings or in a shared flat or house currently costs between €250 and €380 a month. These offers are usually posted online, in the local newspapers and on the blackboards of the universities.

The International Office is unfortunately not in the position to assist exchange students to find accommodation of this kind.

The student refectory at htw saar – usually referred to as the Mensa – offers students, staff and visitors freshly prepared regional and international dishes. The menu also always includes a vegetarian meal. Student prices currently range from €2.50 to €3.50 (main dish, side salad & dessert). Financial Support htw saar itself does not award scholarships or grants. However, international exchange students from EHEA member states have the option of applying for a European mobility grant from the European Union’s ERASMUS+ programme at their home institution. See ‘Cost of living and financing your studies’ on page 37.

Insurances
All htw saar students are legally required to have adequate health insurance
All enrolled students at htw saar are covered by the institutional accident insurance of the university on its grounds, as well as during official university excursions and on the commute between accommodation and the university. Compensation can only be paid in cases in which the insured event is directly related to studying at htw saar.

The student union has included a supplementary insurance package in the semester fee (see p.61) which contains:

- Personal accident: Insurance covers accidents outside of the university sphere (max. coverage scope ca. 46 000 €).
- Theft: Insurance covers theft of moveable items (excluding car, car accessories, optical devices, jewelry, and others) on the university grounds (max. coverage scope ca. 380 €).
- Personal liability: Insurance against liability claims by the university (excluding windows and mirrors, display cases, machinery, wear and tear, fire damage, as well as items/machines used in scientific experiments by the students themselves). (max. coverage scope for property damage ca. 153 000€, for personal damage ca. 1 000 000 €).

Further restrictions apply. This insurance overview is for informational purposes only and the information contained may be subject to change.

As the above personal liability insurance is very limited and related to the university only, we recommend that students additionally take out a more comprehensive personal liability insurance.

The International Office provides student tutors that assist international exchange students in practical matters as well as orientation on study related issues. They offer a meet & greet service for arriving exchange students as well as a social and cultural programme during the semester with excursion, sports, etc..

htw saar offers - in cooperation with the other universities of the region - a comprehensive sports programme: everything from Aikido to Yoga. Information and registration: www.uni-saarland.de/hochschulsport
German courses

Despite its proximity to France and Luxembourg, incoming students should not expect staff in local government offices, banks or shops to have sufficient language skills to be able to provide assistance in a foreign language. You may find that help is available in the popular foreign languages French and English, but it is unlikely to be the case for other languages.

If you would like to assess your current proficiency in German, an online placement test is available at: https://www.goethe.de/de/spr/kup/tsd.html

Before coming to Germany

Ideally you should take German language courses already in the year before coming as an exchange student to Germany. Check with your home university if they offer such courses.

Preparatory intensive German course for EXCHANGE students

Each semester before classes start, the International Office offers a preparatory intensive German course for exchange students. This course is free of charge. You can find the intensive course dates for 2018/19 on the inside of the cover to this guide.

German courses during the semester for EXCHANGE students and German courses for specific purposes

The International Office offers German language courses that run weekly during the semesters. The university also offers German courses for specific purposes for international htw saar-students who already have German proficiency level B2 or higher (e.g. academic writing, job/internship application training or business German). These courses can be used to consolidate your language proficiency and to acquire specialist skills. It is possible to take these semester courses for credit (worth 2.5 ECTS each). In this case do not forget to include it in your learning agreement/course list. These courses are free of charge.

Preparing to come to Germany

Visa/temporary residence permit

International students who are not nationals of an EU member state usually require a student visa in order to enter the Federal Republic of Germany. Student visas are issued by the German diplomatic mission (embassy or consulate) in the relevant home country on presentation of the official letter of admission from htw saar. Visas are not required by students from countries with which special agreements between governments have been signed (visa waiver). You can find more information (incl. links to the German diplomatic missions worldwide) on the website of the German Federal Foreign Office ("Auswärtiges Amt"): www.auswaertiges-amt.de Exact information about requirements and documents to be submitted for a student visa application is provided by the German diplomatic mission (embassy or consulate) responsible for your place of residence. These include upfront proof of sufficient financial resources of ca. 4400€/8800€ per semester/year of study in Germany. Make sure to inquire which form of financial proof is required. You may need to deposit the money in a special blocked account.

Non-EU nationals who entered Germany in the framework of a visa-waiver programme, whose stay in Germany is longer than 90 days, must also apply for a temporary residence permit at the Immigration authority in Saarbruecken after arrival. In order to obtain the temporary resident permit as a student, persons who entered Germany under a visa-waiver programme must also prove sufficient financial resources of ca. 4400€/8800€ per semester/year of study in Germany. Especially for non-EU nationals who enter Germany under a visa waiver program it is advisable to contact the Immigration Authority (via email) prior to departure to obtain exact information what documents you will need to bring (e.g. which form of financial proof is required, you may need to deposit the money in a special blocked account) and what fees you will need to pay there.

REST Directive for Non-EU nationals with a residence permit/ visa from another EU country EU Member State

Students coming from a country outside of the EU, who have already been issued with a residence title under the Directive on conditions of entry and residence (Directive 2016/801/EU) in another EU Member State, may study in Germany (less than 360 days) without applying for a German residence title. This applies under condition that the EU Member State has implemented the Directive (EU) 2016/801 (REST Directive) into national law and that a notification has been sent by the htw saar International Office to the National Contact Point at the Federal Office for Migration and Refugees at latest 30 days before the planned entry into Germany. Non-EU nationals with a residence permit/ visa from another EU country need to contact the German embassy or consulate in the country where they hold residence in order to find out whether they need to apply for a visa or not. More information on the REST Directive, see: www.bamf.de/EN/Migration/Studieren/studieren-node.html

After arrival in Germany

In the first weeks after arrival in Germany, all students who are not nationals of an EU member state holding a visa, need to register at the Immigration Authority in Saarbrücken. Depending on the visa specifications and validity dates students may need to apply for a temporary residence permit at the Immigration Authority.

Health insurance

Students from an EU or EFTA member state must provide an EHIC chip card (European Health Insurance Card) as proof that they are insured in their home country. After arrival in Saarbrücken on presentation of the EHIC card to a German health insurance fund in Germany (see p.60) you will receive a proof of exemption for the German statutory health insurance („Bescheinigung über die Befreiung von der Krankenversicherungspflicht“). Students need to submit this proof of exemption when they enrol at htw saar.

The expiry date of the EHIC card has to exceed either 31 March for students coming for the winter semester or 30 September for students coming for the summer semester. The EHIC itself should be presented whenever you consult a doctor (see also p.49).

International students without EHIC must have sufficient health insurance to cover their stay in Germany. Please note: No insurance inevitably means no registration at any German university. Proof of health insurance is also necessary for the visa (if applicable) and in order to obtain the temporary residence permit at the immigration authority in Saarbrücken (if applicable). Most students from non-EU or non-EFTA member countries take out statutory student health insurance in Germany (see p.60, health insurance funds in Saarbrücken).

Students from non-EU or non-EFTA countries who plan to take out (or already have) health insurance from their home country need to proceed as follows:

1. After you have received your admission letter from htw saar, send an email to one of the statutory health insurers in Saarbrücken (contact details see p.60) in which you specify that you will be coming to Saarbrücken as an exchange student and ask them for a prior assessment of your health insurance whether it is sufficient for them to issue the proof of exemption. Include detailed information / policy documents about the scope of the coverage of your insurance from the home country.

2. If the assessment is POSTIVE, after arrival in Saarbrücken go to the statutory health insurer and present your policy documents and a copy of the correspondence with them and ask them to issue the proof of exemption („Bescheinigung über die Befreiung von der Krankenversicherungspflicht“). When you enrol at htw saar you need to hand in this proof of exemption.

If the assessment is NEGATIVE, you need to take out German statutory student health insurance (rate around 93€ per month for students under age 30, current January 2019).

3. On the day of enrolment at htw saar you then hand in EITHER a written proof of the statutory health insurance called “Nachweis über den Abschluss einer gesetzlichen Krankenversicherung“ (proof of statutory health insurance coverage) OR a written proof of exemption („Bescheinigung über die Befreiung von der Krankenversicherungspflicht“). These documents can only be issued by a German statutory health insurer.
The International Office is unfortunately not in a position to make an assessment whether your foreign health insurance is recognized by German statutory health insurer as sufficient for the „proof of exemption“ or not. They may, for example, require a confirmation in English or German stating that it covers all costs (without any coverage limit!) in case of medical treatment and rehabilitation during your stay in Germany. It is therefore strongly advisable to obtain exact information from the insurance company in your home country.

The German student statutory health insurance is linked to semester enrolment periods. So your cover starts on either April 1st or October 1st. If you arrive earlier in Germany (e.g. preparatory language course or travels) you need to insure that you have adequate health insurance from your home country for the in-between period.

Additional Information and contact details of German statutory health insurance providers in Saarbrücken can be found on page 60.
Travelling to Saarbrücken

Plane
Saarbrücken airport is located about 20 km from the city and can be reached from the city centre by a shuttle bus (bus runs on limited hours, taxi one-way to city center ca. 30€). At present, Air Berlin and Luxair are the only airlines operating regular scheduled services to and from Saarbrücken. Other airports that can be used when travelling to Saarbrücken include Frankfurt am Main, Frankfurt-Hahn, Metz, Luxembourg and Paris. Except for Frankfurt-Hahn these airports all have good bus, coach or rail services to Saarbrücken.

Train
Saarbrücken is situated on the IC and ICE/TGV main line linking Mannheim and Paris and has excellent rail links to other German cities (see: www.bahn.de).

Coach
Saarbrücken is served by international coach services from almost every European country (see www.busliniensuche.de).
Things to be done after arriving in Germany

Note: A checklist to help you deal with organizational red tape after arriving in Saarbrücken is provided in the appendix to this study guide (see p.63). The checklist also contains the addresses of the relevant agencies or government offices.

Moving-in

Make an appointment at an early date to receive the key to your new room or apartment and agree on a date to move in. You will be given a rental agreement by your landlord to sign. You will need this contract when registering at the City Hall Office (“Bürgeramt”) in Saarbrücken (see p.64).

Matriculation (enrolment)

Exchange students from our partner institutions must enroll at htw saar personally in the International Office (see p.63).
Health insurance

Germany has a two-tiered (public and private) health insurance system. For an explanation of the German health insurance system in English see: www.1a.net/versicherung/krankenversicherung/international

The public health insurances (“Gesetzliche Krankenkassen”) are obliged to offer health insurance to students (up to age 30) at a discounted rate (see p.55). This rate is fixed by law, and the same amount irrespective of which public health insurance you chose. Equally, the scope of the coverage is fixed by law, and for 90% identical between the public health insurances. There are more than one hundred different public health insurance providers in Germany. You are free to choose any public health insurance that offers health insurance in the state of Saarland (with the exception of some of the employer-linked “Betriebskrankenkassen”= BKK’s).

For an overview of public health insurances in Germany see: https://de.wikipedia.org/wiki/Liste_deutscher_Krankenkassen

Paying the semester fee

In order to be able to enrol at htw saar, all students must provide proof that the semester fee has been paid. At present, the semester fee for a single semester is €215 (winter semester 2018/19). This mandatory fee is not a tuition fee, but entitles students to free public transport within the Saar region as well as discounts for meals, reduced-price tickets, etc. for the duration of the semester. Shortly before your arrival you will receive information about the payment procedure from the International Office (see p.63).

Registering your place of residence

International students must register their place of residence in Saarbrücken at the Residents’ Registration Office (Bürgeramt / Einwohnermeldeamt).
Address: see page 64.

Bank account

Some companies (accommodation providers, telecommunication service providers, etc.) may require you to set up a direct debit mandate with a German bank account. If you have a Euro/SEPA- bank account in another EU member state, you should check whether the particular German company allows direct debit mandates with this account. If you wish or need to set up a bank account in Germany, many banks in Saarbrücken offer free-of-charge student accounts (see p.64 for addresses).

Taxation ID number

International students who would like to gain work experience in a German company as part of their course of study, or who want a student job to help finance their studies will need a taxation ID number. The numbers are issued by the taxation authority (Finanzamt Saarbrücken, Am Stadtgraben 2-4, opening hours see: www.finanzamt-saarbruecken.de).
